Intelligent water control

MaestroPro™ is a central system that allows you to control all water functions. Using its intuitive interface, you can activate products, orchestrate lighting and synchronize water features.

Vortex has developed two industry-leading water management systems specifically engineered to meet your project's demands.

Recirculation

This closed-circuit system filters and reuses the very same water flowing from your play area. Simplifying installation and keeping quality top of mind, recirculation systems are engineered to your project requirements and factory built and tested.

SmartFlow™

These systems make use of the potable water that runs through your play area. After releasing from your playscape, the effluent water returns to the municipal treatment system, or transfers into a holding tank and then gets repurposed to nourish vegetation.

A sustainable approach

When you're designing for future generations, sustainability matters. Constantly innovating, we use durable materials that are built to last and we develop advanced water management systems that reduce water and energy consumption. This digital catalog helps us further reduce our impact on the environment—please think before you print.
